1.2.80

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, June 16, 2004 at Trinity Episcopal

www.unc.bz

1. Lord, let My words that come forth out of me and come forth and emanate from my spirit come out of my mouth. Let them be as love bullets into my wife, into my son, into, Lord people, your body. Love bullets, let my words come forth as love bullets, as love bullets, as particles of love, as particles of love, as pictures of love, let my words come forth as pictures of love, bullets of love, particles of love, particles of joy and laughter and truth. Let my words come forth, Oh God, in powerful power and destroying the destroyer, destroying gnarled communication, destroying previous perceptions that are inaccurate, or unholy, or ungodly, not of You, not of now.

2. Powerful words, powerful words that have particles of the Most High God in them that go into their spirit and explode. Love, love exploding in them. Love exploding in them, let my voice, the very voice waves, the sound waves that come forth from my voice be particles that are excited, that are accelerated, that collide with evil and displace evil, displace wrong thinking and powerfully power the truth, righteousness, holiness, godliness, the gospel, the blood, the truth, the light, the Cross, the rightness, love, joy and peace, gentleness, meekness, kindness, temperance, self-control.

3. Lord let my voice be as a weapon to destroy the works of the enemy. Let my voice be as a weapon to destroy the works of hell. Let my voice be as a weapon to destroy fear and every work of the enemy. Let my voice be as love bullets, as truth projectiles, projectiles of truth, of love, of tenderness, of tenderness of meekness, of royalty-izing those who hear my voice, who seek to know you, seek to know you, crushing, crushing the power of the hurts of the past.

4. Let my voice be as love bullets. Let those words that come forth from me now and forevermore without fail carry and be comprised of, composed of love, and DO what you guide them to do, what you want them to do. You said your word will not return void, oh God. Let your love, let your bullets of love, the projectiles and weapons of love not return void. But, oh God, from this day forth, from this moment forth, 11:02 a.m. on June 16, 2004, may my words take on your power, not my power, your power.

5. All of my power that you have given me is totally submitted, I bring to you to judge, judge deeply, intensely, completely, severely. Judge me, judge my voice, judge my thoughts, judge how I speak, judge my voice, judge my voice, judge my voice, judge my words, judge my relationships. Oh God, cut off anything and everything that is not of you. Bring forth everything you desire.

6. Let my words be as love bullets. Let my words be as love bullets conquering, crushing the enemy, displacing untruth and not letting untruth live in the person. Do not let untruth live in my wife. Do not let untruth live in my son. Do not let untruth live in my daughter. Do not let untruth live in me. Do not let untruth live in your body. Oh God, not in Marci, not in Evie, not in Amy's husband, wherever he is, who ever he is. Words from your throne, powerful, powerful, powered by love, powered by the Cross, powered by the blood, powered by the word of the Father, word of the Son, word of the Holy Spirit, one.